RECOMMENDATIONS OF CHURCH COUNCIL URGE STRIKE PEACE

Urges Belligerent Tactics Be Halted By Both Sides

NEW YORK, May 7.—Abandonment by both operators and mine workers in the strike-ridden bituminous coal fields of "belligerent and oppressive tactics" and the re-establishment of orderly industrial relations are recommended in a lengthy report issued today by the department of research and education of the Federal Council of Churches.

The report emphasizes the "unsatisfactory economic situation of the industry" and condemns the use of violence.

Says the eviction of mine workers' families from company houses "indicates a wholly unsound social situation."

Declares that the use of injunctions in labor disputes has been "carried to absurd lengths."

Advocates a frank presentation by the operators of the financial data upon which they base their contention that the union scale is prohibitive.

The report contains the findings of the church organization as the result of an investigation conducted during the past few months at the request of the Pittsburgh conference of churches. The investigation was made in the coal fields of western Pennsylvania.

Stressing the unsatisfactory economic situation in the industry, the report makes these statements:

"Here is a seriously overdeveloped industry, with more mines and more labor than the demand justifies, divided into sharply competitive fields, and subject to influences that tend to limit its market. Until the fundamental ills of the industry, treated as a whole, are grappled successfully either by the industry itself or by the government, or both, preoccupation with the humanitarian phases of the problem can accomplish little of a constructive nature."

The use of violence is deplored in these words: "However great the provocation, the beating up of men who have taken the positions of those on strike is a barbarous practice. The fact that these brutal demonstrations may be quite unauthorized by the responsible officials of the union is only a partial defense. The conduct of the strike imposes a heavy responsibility in the matter of discipline."

Stronger language is used in condemning police violence: "In employing with legal sanction the force and iron police, the coal companies in a solemn obligation not to divert the processes of orderly government to private ends. It is almost impossible to preserve justice in a time of industrial crisis when officers of the peace are carried on the payrolls of industrial corporations. The practice does not become salutary by virtue of legality or the bitterness caused by the use of injunctions, the report says:

"When a corporation seeks and a court grants an injunction restraining a union not only from acts which are illegal and wrong in themselves but from ordinary routine activities, such as the peaceful recruiting of members or the disbursing of relief funds in time of strike, the social effects are bound to be injurious. The same is true when the injunction is used to protect an individual contract that is contrary to the worker's legitimate interest."

Employees should have the right to organize and bargain collectively, the report declares, adding that "the employers should be brought to a realization of the need of conceding that right as a means of eliminating cut-throat competition."

FEDERAL EMPLOYEES MAY GET INCREASES

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Uncle Sam's 150,000 employees may win the first half of their legislative fight for better pay today, if passage of the Welch $18,000,000 salary increase bill in the house. Backed by President Coolidge and powerful congressional leaders, pilots of the bill planned to call it up under suspension of the rules. Prospects of passage were bright.

Inaugurating their fight on the ground that the government had refused to recognize the increase in living costs although private industry had done so, the government workers have steadily gained ground through the present session.

Although the benefits of the Welch bill were reduced in a compromise effort, the measure will carry an estimated increase of $180 a year for employees in the custodial service and $100 to $150 a year for other employees.

Approximately 100,000 civil service employees outside of Washington, scattered through all states and possessions, will benefit under the bill, it is said. Some of these workers now receive as low as $800 a year with few exceeding $9,000.

There was no Democratic contest so far as presidential candidates are concerned, it having been agreed that Maryland Democrats will vote at Houston for Gov. Albert C. Ritchie.

Phillips Lee Goldsborough, former governor, was unopposed for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Senator William Cabell Bruce, the Democratic incumbent, was opposed by a woman, Mrs. Virginia Parkhurst.

TABLE ROCK COVE, S. C., May 7.—Hope that the hand of man might stay the crumbling of the Table Rock Cove dam, holding back 5,000,000,000 gallons of water at the head of the Saluda River valley, diminished rapidly today.

Expressing grave apprehension that the rapid rise of the stream was due to a new break, engineers held little hope of saving the dam and ordered the danger zone cleared of all persons. Armed guards placed around the entrance to the gorge, permitted no one to pass.

MANILA, P. I., MAY 7.—The League of Nations has been called upon to intercede in the present warfare raging about Tsinanfu, China. The Home - Coming

(AN EDITORIAL)

Greene County's Home-Coming to be held in Xenia next August, deserves the support and co-operation of every Greene County resident.

A Home-Coming, such as is being planned is a wholesome occasion. It strengthens the ties of interest that bind former citizens to their home community and encourages a spirit of co-operation among the home-folks who act as hosts.

Twenty years ago Xenians staged a most successful Home-Coming, and drew thousands of people back to their old home city. It would not be in keeping with the spirit of the present-day Xenia, if this year's entertainment did not surpass the success of the 1908 affair.

General committees working on plans for the coming affair, need co-operation more than anything else. One of the best ways to express that co-operation now, is to furnish Home-Coming Headquarters with names and addresses of former residents of Greene County. Such names are needed at this time so that special invitations may be sent every former resident of Xenia, at once, before other plans for his summer are made.

Names and addresses of any people who ever lived in Greene County or any of the county towns are wanted. They should be taken, mailed or telephoned to Home-Coming Headquarters, 33 Green St., where Miss Josephine Wolf, is in charge of the Home-Coming Headquarters office. She will be glad to receive them. Everyone should help in contributing names to this invitation list. It is the big thing right now.

KILLER IS WOUNDED ATTEMPTING ESCAPE

Alleged Bootlegger Guarded In Hospital After Rioting Was Threatened; Alleged Accomplice Held; Prisoner May Live.

MIDDLETOWN, O., May 7.—George McCullen, 26, Negro, who shot and fatally wounded two Middletown policemen here Saturday night during a gun battle following an attempt to escape arrest, was in a serious condition at the Middletown Hospital today.

McCullen was shot by police when he jumped from an automobile rushing him from Hamilton to Middletown to avoid threatened lynching. He was then brought to the local hospital.

The negro confessed, police said, that he shot Patrolmen Elbert Crout, 32, and Harold W. Roth, of Middletown, while resisting arrest on a liquor charge. Roth died Saturday night and Crout Sunday morning.

The negro's father, who is alleged to have aided McCullen in his battle with police, is being held without bond and will be charged with first degree murder.

While the negro has two bullet wounds, one in the head and another in the back, physicians at the hospital this morning said that the wounds were not necessarily fatal. Some hope is held for the man's recovery.

Crowds, numbering from 200 to 300 people, surrounded the hospital and jail Saturday night and early Sunday morning, but no real disturbance resulted, reports said. One man was arrested for "disturbing the peace" but later released.

BESEECH AVIATORS TO EXTEND PROGRAM OF VISITING CITIES

Trans-Ocean Flyers Still Honored By Receptions

NEW YORK, May 7.—Governor Fred R. Zimmerman, of Wisconsin, who hastened here by airplane, today had an appointment with the Bremen fliers to urge their making a visit to Madison, capital of his state, in the American tour which the aviators begin Wednesday.

It is one of many pleas pouring in upon Baron Von Huenefeld, Major Fitzmaurice and Captain Koehl to expand their itinerary beyond its scheduled fourteen days.

The ship in which the midwesterners flew to New York was undergoing repairs at Mitchell Field. A storm forced it down Saturday night at Selinsgrove, Pa., where Governor Zimmerman dedicated a new airport.

Today holds no letdown in the matter of affairs in the fliers' honor. They were to lunch at the Astor as guests of the German-American Chamber of Commerce.

Friendly Sons of St. Patrick hold a reception for them at the Astor this evening.

Major Fitzmaurice and Captain Koehl attended Sunday mass at St. Agnes' Church. The Baron and Mrs. Koehl went to St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church.

In a Junkers monoplane, similar to the fliers' own, they flew to the one in which they flew from Ireland to hop first to Philadelphia. Their tour will take them as far west as Chicago and St. Louis.

The wives of Major Fitzmaurice and Captain Koehl will remain in New York during the good will tour.

Canadian cities will be visited by the fliers, in appreciation of the hospitality and co-operation accorded them at Greenville Island. They will return to this city May 23.

Their itinerary follows: Wednesday, May 9.—Leave Curtiss Field for Philadelphia. Thursday, May 10.—Leave Philadelphia, Pa., for Cleveland. Leave Cleveland for Chicago. Friday, May 11.—In Chicago. DARROW "COMES HOME" TO DEFEND PRISONER

JEFFERSON, O., May 7.—Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, today was to re-enter court after a long absence. He is to defend James Munsene, alleged bootlegger of Trumbull County, Darrow's home territory.

While Darrow's name will go on the records in the local court as "chief of defense counsel," it is largely a "home-coming" for the veteran attorney. A few months ago, when visiting his birthplace at Kinman, near here, Darrow expressed a desire to win a lawsuit in his old haunts.

Munsene's trial, coming into the limelight at the time, Attorney Francis W. Poulson, Cleveland, chief defense lawyer for Velma West, convicted hammer-slayer and Attorney H. A. Burgess, Warren, persuaded Darrow to lead them in a fight for Munsene.

Munsene is charged with attempting to bribe the wife of Sheriff Jack Smith, of Trumbull County over two years ago, after a trial coming into the limelight at the time, Attorney Francis W. FOUR KILLED DURING DANCE HALL FIGHT

TWO BELIEVED HURT FATALLY IN ATTEMPT TO PUT DANCER OUT

MARTIN, Ky., May 7.—Four persons were dead today, two believed fatally injured and two suffering lesser injuries as the result of a pistol battle in a dance hall at Ligon, Floyd County, Saturday night.

The dead were:

L. Nagler.
Milford Newsome.
C. Reynolds.
James Bush.

Alexander Newsome, father of one of the dead men, and a man named McCann were near death in a Martin, Kentucky, hospital today.

Among those in the hospital with lesser injuries, and who will recover, were Jarvey Newsome and Huey Gibson. Several others were slightly injured by the flying bullets.

The shooting started, according to the sheriff's office, when Huey Gibson, a constable, and James Bush attempted to evict Milford Newsome from the dance hall for falling to pay his way into the crowded dance hall. They seized Newsome and were attempting to take him from the floor when a shot was fired and Bush fell dead.

A free-for-all shooting scrape followed and three others fell dead and four were wounded.

A special train was rushed from Prestonsburg to remove the wounded to the local hospital.

Funeral services for the four dead were to be held today.

Although an investigation into the gun battle was being made today by Sheriff P. Y. Martin of Floyd County, no arrests have been made.

TOLEDO, O., May 7.—Mrs. Mary Crawford, 28, was in Mercy Hospital recovering from a bullet wound in her right leg and an unidentified robber suspect was the object of police grilling here today following the unsuccessful attempt of a lone bandit to "stick-up" the Barbecue Inn yesterday.

Mrs. Crawford, a waitress in the restaurant, was wounded during an exchange of shots between the bandit and Frank Phillips, proprietor of the inn, which ensued when the bandit entered the eating house and demanded that Phillips elevate his hands.

Phillips, who but a few minutes before had remarked that he was ready for any robbers "who might attempt to hold me up," instead of complying with the bandit's demand, whipped out a revolver from under the counter. The hold-up man immediately opened fire to which Phillips replied, driving the bandit before him. Losing his nerve, the bandit fled through the door and down the street outdistancing Phillips who pursued him, still firing.

The suspect, who is being held for further investigation and treatment at St. Vincent's Hospital here, gave the name of Jack Roberts, 19, no address. He was taken into custody following his appearance at this city, weak from loss of blood—the result of a bullet wound which he has as yet failed to satisfactorily explain, police say.

While Darrow's name will go on the records in the local court as "chief of defense counsel," it is largely a "home-coming" for the veteran attorney.

A few months ago, when visiting his birthplace at Kinsman, near here, Darrow expressed a desire to win a lawsuit in his old haunts. Munsene's trial coming into the limelight at the time, Attorney Francis W. Foulson, Cleveland, chief defense lawyer for Velma West, convicted hammer-slayer and Attorney H. A. Burgess, Warren, persuaded Darrow to lead them in a fight for Munsene.

Munsene is charged with attempting to bribe the wife of Sheriff Jack Smith, of Trumbull County over two years ago. Tried twice on the charge, he was convicted, but each time the conviction was reversed. The Jefferson trial will be the third. Munsene's lawyers have been granted a change of venue.

KILLER IS WOUNDED ATTEMPTING ESCAPE

Alleged Bootlegger Guarded In Hospital After Rioting Was Threatened; Alleged Accomplice Held; Prisoner May Live.

MIDDLETOWN, O., May 7.—George McCullen, 26, Negro, who shot and fatally wounded two Middletown policemen here Saturday night during a gun battle following an attempt to escape arrest, was in a serious condition at the Middletown Hospital today.

McCullen was shot by police when he jumped from an automobile rushing him from Hamilton to Middletown to avert threatened lynching. He was then brought to the local hospital.

The negro confessed, police said, that he shot Patrolmen Elbert Crout, 32, and Harold W. Roth, of Middletown, while resisting arrest on a liquor charge. Roth died Saturday night and Crout Sunday morning.

The negro's father, who is alleged to have aided McCullen in his battle with police, is being held without bond and will be charged with first degree murder.

While the negro has two bullet wounds, one in the head and another in the back, physicians at the hospital this morning said that the wounds were not necessarily fatal. Some hope is held for the man's recovery.

Crowds, numbering from 200 to 300 people, surrounded the hospital and jail Saturday night and early Sunday morning, but no real disturbance resulted, reports said. One man was arrested for "disturbing the peace" but later released.

BESEECH AVIATORS TO EXTEND PROGRAM OF VISITING CITIES

Trans-Ocean Flyers Still Honored By Receptions

NEW YORK, May 7.—Governor Fred R. Zimmerman, of Wisconsin, who hastened here by airplane today had an appointment with the Biemen fliers to urge their making a visit to Madison, capital of his state, in the American tour which the aviators begin Wednesday.

It is one of many pleas pouring in upon Baron Von Huenfeldt, Major Fitzmaurice and Captain Koehl to expand their itinerary beyond its scheduled fourteen days.

The ship in which the midwesterners flew to New York was undergoing repairs at Mitchell Field. A storm forced it down Saturday night at Schenectady, Pa., where Governor Zimmerman dedicated a new airport.

Today holds no letdown in the matter of affairs in the fliers' honor. They were to lunch at the Astor as guests of the German-American Chamber of Commerce. The Friendly Society of St. Patrick held a reception for them at the Astor this evening.

Major Fitzmaurice and Captain Koehl attended Sunday mass at St. Agnes' Church. The Baron and Mrs. Koehl went to the Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church. The Junkers monoplane, similar to the one in which they flew from Ireland to Greenville Island, the fliers will hop first to Philadelphia. Their tour will take them as far west as Chicago and St. Louis.

Advances of Major Fitzmaurice and Captain Koehl will remain in New York during the good will tour.

Canadian cities will be visited by the fliers, in appreciation of the hospitality and co-operation accorded them in Greenville Island. They will return to this city May 23.

Their itinerary follows:

Wednesday, May 9.—Leave Curtiss Field for Philadelphia.
Thursday, May 10.—Leave Philadelphia, Pa., for Cleveland. Leave Cleveland for Chicago.
Friday, May 11.—In Chicago.
Saturday, May 12.—In Chicago.
Sunday, May 13.—Leave Chicago for Milwaukee.
Monday, May 14.—Leave Milwaukee for St. Louis.
Tuesday, May 15.—In St. Louis.

REPORT ELEVEN WORKMEN LOST

NEW YORK, May 7.—Eleven men in a crew of forty-seven were reported missing early today after a United States dredge boat sank off Pier 17, Stapleton, Staten Island.

Several ships in the harbor sent boats to the rescue.

Members of the crew of the dredge were taken to the shore. At 8 a. m. it was established that five of the survivors were in the marine hospital on Staten Island. The accident occurred shortly after 4 a. m.

GANG WAR BLAMED FOR NEW BOMBING

CHICAGO, May 7.—A dynamite bomb today wrecked the entrance to a cabaret and soft drink parlor, threw a score of nearby residents from their beds and shattered nearby windows.

Refusal of Joseph Weimreich, proprietor of the bombed establishment, to buy beer from a certain gang, was blamed by police for the explosion.

Damage was estimated at $5,000.

TWO ARE KILLED

BRIDGEPORT, O., May 7.—The bodies of the two victims of Saturday's early morning street car automobile collision here were being prepared to be sent to their respective homes today. The body of Mrs. James E. Hays, 43, wife of the driver of the automobile which was sent to Upper Sandusky, was sent to that city. The body of the driver, A. S. Hubbard, was sent to Campbellsville, Ky., it was announced.

DARROW "COMES HOME" TO DEFEND PRISONER

JEFFERSON, O., May 7.—Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago criminal lawyer, today was to re-enter court after a long absence. He is to defend James Munsene, alleged bootlegger of Trumbull County, Darrow's home territory.

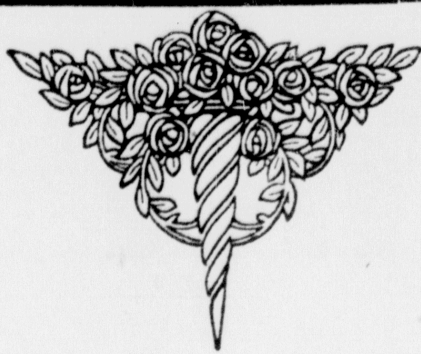

While Darrow's name will go on the records in the local court as "chief of defense counsel," it is largely a "home-coming" for the veteran attorney.

A few months ago, when visiting his birthplace at Kinsman, near here, Darrow expressed a desire to win a lawsuit in his old haunts. WHOSE RENT DO YOU PAY?

Are you helping to build the sky-scrapers? Are you helping to pay the rent of stores in city sky-scrapers?

Are you contributing to the high taxes?

—to the insurance?

—to the interest?

—to employes' wages?

To these and hundreds of other things that are included in the overhead expenses of every big city store or mail-order house?

Most surely you are if you are buying anything from them because every dollar's worth of goods sold by such business houses must help pay these expenses.

Buying and selling merchandise is governed by natural rules of business. Price is based on cost of production plus cost of sales and regulated by demand.

Wholesale costs are fixed by standards and are the same to all retail merchants. The retail price is based on the wholesale cost, plus the sales cost.

The sales cost is another way of saying "overhead expense."

Into overhead must go the cost of store rental, which is figured off in interest and taxes if the store owns its own building.

Into overhead also must go insurance on stock, light, heat, advertising, employes' wages and a certain percentage written off for depreciation.

To all of these costs the merchant, whether he is operating in Xenia or Gopher Prairie, adds a certain percentage which represents his profit on his investment and the work he puts into his business.

Retail costs, therefore, it is apparent, must vary according to the overhead expenses. If you have ever attempted to rent store space in a big city, attempted to pay for big city newspaper advertising, attempted to hire big city employes accustomed to big city wages, or paid insurance premiums made larger by city hazards, you will have some idea of just how high this overhead expense can go.

That's the reason, then, that a Xenia clothing merchant can sell the same suit of clothes for $10 less than a store in a big city. That's a reason a Xenia shoe store can sell shoes regularly at retail prices LESS than the special sales price of a big city competitor. That's the reason that Xenia women are frequently amazed to find merchandise in Xenia department stores selling for considerably less than merchandise of comparable quality in big city department stores.

Xenians have talked of the store decorations of a certain big city department store. Do you know how much they cost and who paid for them? Xenians have heard of a handbill circulated by certain big city merchants. Do you know how much it costs and who pays for it?

Remember this, then: that the only reason the merchant continues in business and continues to prosper, is because he regularly and consistently takes his profit. If he has to add to the retail price to pay for overhead and exploitation, he passes these costs on to the customer. Among those who pay for this overhead Xenians who patronize Xenia merchants, will not be found.

COTTAGE AND CONTENTS LOST IN FIRE CAUSED BY STOVE BLAST

A five-room, one-story, frame cottage, owned by R. B. Hickman, colored, postmaster at Wilberforce, and occupied by Steve George, and family, located on a side road, off the Old Town Pike near Wilberforce, was entirely destroyed by fire late Sunday afternoon.

The flames, fanned by a high wind, spread, and a garage and hen house on the property also burned down.

The total loss to buildings and contents is placed at about $1,500, partly covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. George narrowly escaped being trapped in the burning cottage.

The fire was caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove. Responding to the screams of his wife, George rushed into the burning room. They found that escape was cut off by a locked door. George kicked out a window pane and the two climbed out to safety in this way, although not before their hair had been singed.

Two automobiles were removed from the garage and the chickens in the hen house were also taken out. Efforts of neighbors to fight the flames were futile.

While the blaze was raging, a loaded shotgun in the cottage exploded. Two new suits of clothes owned by George, which he had never worn, were consumed. The family lost all of its household goods.

Francis Foley, 17, is expected to be arraigned in Probate Court Monday or Tuesday on a charge of possessing liquor, following his arrest Sunday.

Police learned that Foley drove to Dayton at midnight Saturday and obtained a gallon of whiskey. The auto was also occupied by Fred Wisecup, William Hedges, Vernon Elliott and a colored man named Nuby.

They hid the liquor on the Dayton and Xenia Pike and came to Xenia for the whiskey. Foley and Elliott are said to have gotten out of the machine and engaged in a fight.

Foley, it is charged, hurled a stone at Elliott, the rock striking him on the head and knocking him down. Later a passing autoist picked up the injured man.

Foley told police they afterward threw the liquor away. He was arrested Sunday by Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, and O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman. The officers said Foley smashed two half pint bottles containing booze on the pavement as they approached.

Police arrested four persons over the week end for intoxication.

Alva Toner and B. K. Owens were each given suspended fines of $25 and costs by Mayor J. W. Prugh Monday morning. They pleaded guilty to drunkenness.

Thomas Valentine and William Scott, both colored, were fined $15 and costs. They also pleaded guilty. Valentine was found stretched out on the sidewalk on W. Third St., Saturday night.

Ed Fox is being detained at Police Headquarters on suspicion following his arrest Sunday by Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, and O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman. Police say a half-pint bottle was found in his possession.

AUTOISTS BRUISED WHEN CARS COLLIDE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Occupants of the auto owned and driven by L. A. Wagner, W. Third St., escaped with painful bruises when the machine was overturned when it collided with an auto driven by John H. Myers, Westerville, O., on State Route 55, five miles southwest of Xenia, Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagner, their daughter, Miss Thelma, and the Misses Mildred and Louise Wadde, were occupants of the local car, a sedan.

Mr. Wagner was driving toward Urbana, going downhill, when the Myers car came out a side road, neglecting the "stop" sign and crashed into the Wagner machine. Myers admitted blame for the accident, later.

The Wagner car was badly damaged but was driven to Xenia under its own power.

The Myers car was turned completely over, and the occupants pinned under it. They narrowly escaped serious injury and after the car was righted, returned to their homes here. Mrs. Wagner was the worst hurt of the party, receiving painful bruises, a sprained back and injuries to her chest. Miss Wagner had a sprained ankle.

The Myers machine, a new car, was only slightly damaged.

FAMOUS CHURCH TO RECEIVE GIFTS

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The old New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, where Lincoln worshipped while president, is to have a new spire, chimneys and beacon, the gift of Mrs. Robert Todd Lincoln and other relatives of the martyred president as a memorial, to replace the spire blown down in a wind storm the night of September 29, 1896. Work on the new steeple will be begun shortly, the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo announced today. The chimneys will be in the steeple and the beacon stop to guide aviators passing over the city at night.

The famous church recently celebrated its 125th anniversary.

WILL PLANT POPE'S CROSS IN POLAR ICE

LONDON, May 7.—A religious service will be held at the North pole for the first time in history when Gen. Umberto Nobile, who will fly to the pole in his exploration ship Italia, lands a party to plant the wooden cross given to him by Pope Pius XI in the ice on the top of the world.

Advices from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, today gave details of Nobile's plans for exploration flights from that point to the pole and to other destinations in the arctic.

"The cross given to me by his holiness the Pope will be entrusted by me to a landing party," said Gen. Nobile. "When the cross has been planted in the eternal ice at the top of the world we shall all kneel and give thanks to God."

The Italia arrived at King's Bay from Vadsø at noon yesterday after a stormy flight. The balloon had to battle adverse winds near all the way. It landed in a snow storm.

COTTAGE AND CONTENTS LOST IN FIRE CAUSED BY STOVE BLAST

A five-room, one-story, frame cottage, owned by R. B. Hickman, colored, postmaster at Wilberforce, and occupied by Steve George and family, located on a side road off the Old Town Pike near Wilberforce, was entirely destroyed by fire late Sunday afternoon.

The flames, fanned by a high wind, spread, and the garage and hen house on the property also burned down.

The total loss to buildings and contents is placed at about $1,500, partly covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. George narrowly escaped being trapped in the burning cottage.

The fire was caused by the explosion of a gasoline stove. Responding to the screams of his wife, George rushed into the blazing room. They found that escape was cut off by a locked door. George kicked out a window pane and the two climbed out to safety in this way, although not before their hair had been singed.

Two automobiles were removed from the garage and the chickens in the hen house were also taken out. Efforts of neighbors to fight the flames were futile.

While the blaze was raging, a loaded shotgun in the cottage exploded. Two new suits of clothes owned by George, which he had never worn, were consumed. The family lost all of its household goods.

YOUTH ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE TO BE ARRAIGNED SOON

Francis Foley, 17, is expected to be arraigned in Probate Court Monday or Tuesday on a charge of possessing liquor, following his arrest Sunday.

Police learned that Foley drove to Dayton at midnight Saturday and obtained a gallon of whiskey. The auto was also occupied by Fred Wisecup, William Hedges, Vernon Elliott and a colored man named Nuby.

They hid the liquor on the Dayton and Xenia Pike and came to Xenia to eat a meal. Foley and Elliott are said to have gotten out of the machine and engaged in a fight. Foley, it is charged, hurled a stone at Elliott, the rock striking him on the head and knocking him down. Later a passing autoist picked up the injured man.

Foley told police they afterward threw the liquor away. He was arrested Sunday by Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman, and O. H. Cornell, county road patrolman.

The officers said Foley smashed two half pint bottles containing booze on the pavement as they approached.

AUTOISTS BRUISED WHEN CARS COLLIDE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Occupants of the auto owned and driven by L. A. Wagner, W. Third St., escaped with painful bruises when the machine was overturned when it collided with an auto driven by John H. Myers, Westerville, O., on State Route 55, five miles southwest of Urbana, Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE BLESSED—Now therefore hearken unto me, O ye children: for blessed are they that keep my ways.—Prov. 8:32.

BALL ROOM AND STREET TRAFFIC

The witticism, "Every year is leap year for the pedestrian," may soon be retired with other outlived jokes. Pictures of elderly gentlemen leaping frantically to safety at the blast of automobile horns; of younger folk scurrying to the sidewalks as cars dash across intersections; of timid folk waiting vainly for a break in the traffic stream, may all become things of the past. Traffic engineers and city planners are finally joining with the safety workers in efforts to assure personal security to the man or the woman who walks.

Municipal authorities throughout Ohio are working for the elimination of the two most troublesome traffic minorities—jaywalkers and reckless drivers. One they have accomplished this streets will be safe for both pedestrians and motorists are included in this last statement for the reason that the jay-walker endangers the heart and nerves of the careful driver as much as the reckless driver endangers the life of the careful pedestrian.

When will pedestrians and motorists learn that traffic policemen and signals are for their protection and convenience? And when will all traffic policemen learn to make pedestrians and drivers feel that the police are trying to help, not hinder, them?

Many lives will be saved in Ohio between now and the end of the summer motoring season if every pedestrian goes half way and every motorist comes half way to meet him. A congested thoroughfare is a poor place to stand by one's rights. There is too little of the "My Dear Gaston" and "after you, Mr. Hoolligan" attitude among walkers and riders.

EXPRESSING INDIGNATION

Some take great pride in expressing indignation. They seem to think indignation notions are the only ones worth while expressing. Some are lost in admiration of Brann, the Iconoclast, and the vast crop of professional indignators who followed in his wake. They think it a fine thing to get shot for calling somebody names in print.

Somehow, many are now losing their enthusiasm for indignation. After reading much of this kind of literature it falls upon the taste.

Perhaps all the indignation of all the indignators has been justified by conditions. Yes, but coexistent with the conditions that justified the indignation were other conditions that the indignator utterly ignored.

Upton Sinclair, for instance. Here is a fellow of talent. Perhaps he is even something of a genius. But he has devoted his entire life and all of his energy to indignation and protest. He has seen nothing to smile at since he put away his nursing bottle. He has never had time to note the essential kindness of men and women, or the nobility of spirit that is so common in even ordinary human beings.

It is essential for society that we have a few Upton Sinclairs. But how sad it must be to spend a lifetime crying out condemnation upon one's race and time!

Some drivers really fail to see the "stop" signs, and it may yet be necessary to shape them like an ankle.

Poor brakes cause auto crashes. Bad brakes cause business crashes.

We can't understand what some autoists are driving at.

The good die young, so no one ever knows whether they would have remained good.

The amateur ball players do not think they can challenge the major league teams, but many speculators who know nothing about the stock market think they can beat the insiders.

The Diary of a New Yorker

NEW YORK, May 7.—A reader of this column writes: "I am moving to New York. I have a pet dog, a big Airedale, I dearly love, and I would like to take him with me. But many persons say that New York is no place for dogs; that it would be cruel to take a country dog to a place where he won't be able to stretch his legs as much as he likes; that only lap-dogs are happy in New York."

I don't know whether they're happy or not, but there are more than 200,000 licensed dogs in New York City. Approximately one out of every six families has a canine pal, a contrast with the situation in Hazard, Ky., where every family has six dogs.

I think she may safely bring her dog to the city. Of course, she can't let him run at large. But there are parks and drives upon which she may lead him, and if he is amenable to her orders, she may let him have his head freely when they are together on the streets in the evening. If she lives in the suburbs, the dog can have as much freedom as he is accustomed to in a small city.

They have them in nearly all cities at regular intervals, but in New York the auctions of unclaimed postal matter, held in a hall of the m in postoffice, are especially interesting. For from 25 cents to $5, after a semblance of bidding, the auctioneers hand over to excited buyers, packages containing such articles as toy snakes, maps, rubber baby pants, holy water, Ghurki knives, red-Indian arrowheads, 100 women's hats in one lot, corsets, preserves, cartons of smelling salts, old shoes, wedding rings.

About all of the worn, dusty packages there seems to cling laden packages there seems to cling a dramatic story. Sometimes, of course, are women awaiting those little packages that contained wedding rings.

Seasickness has no terrors for Dr. Philip G. Peabody, 72, of Boston, who is perhaps the world's champion non-professional ocean traveler. The Freethinkers of America, of which he is an officer, gave him a luncheon the other day and then saw him off on his 113th trip across the Atlantic.

"I never tire of travel, and I have no intention of retiring," he told me.

He has been traveling for pleasure more or less continually for 36 years. This time he is going to revisit European countries, and he hopes to see Russia, which he has been in 16 times, after an interval of 10 years. Russia is the place he likes best to visit.

He doesn't know any sure cure for seasickness, he avers. He isn't bothered himself, as may be guessed from his fondness for ocean voyages.

Ingenuity in Salesmanship

Any observant person must have noticed that a big improvement has crept into the selling end of most retail businesses in the last few years. Men who sell goods from behind counters are vastly more clever salesmen than one used to find. Many unimportant looking salesmen are so efficient in their quiet way that they do this by selling rapidly.

A poor salesman, working on salary and commission behind a hat counter, used to take so long to sell the average man a hat that his total commissions at the end of the year were small. But today, if you go into a high grade store to buy a hat, or a suit of clothes, the chances are that the first suit the salesman shows you is the one you finally buy. There will be no need to look much farther. The salesman, if a good one, sizes you up and knows just about what you want. If you have on a black felt hat he may assume that you want a change and will show you a hat of lighter color. If you have a full, round face he does not show you a hat with the kind of brim that would over-emphasize the full-moon effect. And he is careful not to insult you by showing you a hat much cheaper than the one you have been wearing.

"Let's see," says he, reaching out for the hat you have on, "what size do you wear?"

While you're telling him that you wear a seven-and-one-eighth, he is turning the sweatband as if looking for the size; but in reality he is looking for a price mark and taking an inventory of the general quality of the hat.

If he shows you too cheap a hat you would not only feel somewhat insulted but would question his ability to find anything in his stock to satisfy you. It would be apparent that he was simply showing hats at random. Off-ering you too expensive a hat would make you feel uncomfortable—as if you had gone into a store out of your class. You would decide that they took no interest in the wants of customers of more modest means.

The smart salesman gives out the impression that the kind of hat you want is the very kind they make a specialty of—the kind they find most pleasure in selling.

More than once I have gone into a store and bought the first hat the man showed me. I had learned by experience that if I took time to look at others I should probably prefer the first one anyhow.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Eye Fatigue as a Poo to Beauty

Tired Eyes! Have you never seen yourself in a mirror? Have you never been startled into trying to correct the outer condition, even if you can't get more sleep.

You are not beautiful, Tired Eyes. You will not be young much longer. Why not determine to correct the condition if it is humanly possible? For it is, most decidedly, possible. It requires only a little thought and care and time.

There are many simple uses of water which I recommend first. When your eyes are strained and feverish, try washing with cool, and then cold, water, not only the eyes, but the back of the neck as well. There is an interrelationship of nerves there which are most responsive to treatment. An excellent way, not only to soothe the eyes, but to improve the sight, is by learning to open your eyes under water. An eye cup will give you simple practice in the effort.

Another fine thing for you to do is to drop a single drop of water into the corner of each eye the first thing in the morning and again at night. This is another wonderful refreshing practice.

Eyebaths may be manifold. Usually certain kinds are best adapted to certain specific needs. For general use in correcting outstanding cases of fatigue, warm water with a pinch of salt dissolved in it, used in an eye cup, will be very helpful, and so will compresses of cotton, wrung out of hot salt water, just as warm as you can bear it.

After that I know of nothing so soothing as a second application of two very thin cotton pads dipped lightly in a small amount of an extract, or some other good prepared eye solution, and retained over the eyes for 20 minutes or more. This will draw out the redness and inflammation, improving the appearance, as well as cooling and refreshing the eyes. Following this, pass the pads lightly over the entire face, for the solution should also be of the skin's tissues, and will be of great aid in preventing and correcting lines, crowsfeet and wrinkles.

Eye fatigue, you must bear in mind, comes not infrequently from a long steady spell of working, not only with body and mind but with the eyes as well. The obvious remedy is to pause for rest and relaxation at stated intervals during the day.

It is, I know, an easy thing for a non-understanding person to stand in a world apart and say "Rest," "Relax," take a little time for "Recreation."

First I must dissociate myself from that classification. I know exactly how difficult it is to withdraw from a multitude of tasks, but quite apart from the question of appearance, your eyes are delicate organs. They must be cared for, or some day they will refuse to go on at your bidding. They must be attended to, rested, bathed, restored to freshness and vitality, or in a little while beauty will have vanished, and with it those more important considerations, health, youth, clear sight, and undimmed eyes. Do not wait for such a cataclysm.

Buy yourself the few essentials of eye care and learn not to "slavedrive" those delicate, sensitive organisms beyond their natural strength.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Count 'Em.

Mrs. L.—There is only one way to know how much food you are consuming, and that is to count your calories. The fact that you abstained from every thing "fattening" and did not lose a pound for months at a time, shows that you were consuming enough of the "non-fattening" foods to gain on, or at least to keep your weight the same.

You could live on one meal a day and omit sweets and other so-called fattening foods, and still gain weight, if in that one meal you consumed more calories than you needed for the day's activities.

Yes, the milk diet is a splendid reducing diet. But even though you take skim milk, you have to limit the number of calories of it. Otherwise you will gain, for milk diet is one of the best of the gaining methods.

I think you had better send for our pamphlet on reducing and gaining, Mrs. L. The column rules for obtaining it are to enclose (1) a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, and (2) 10 cents in coin. For all other articles, only 2 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. These charges are to cover cost of printing and handling.

MENU HINT

The speedy meal for the business woman who is also the housekeeper, or for the woman who is doing her cleaning or sewing and plans an easily prepared meal, is suggested in today's menu. The canned soup is used here, but you may prefer to substitute some of your own home canned instead of the commercial product. You may buy the tarts, too. If not, it is the work of a moment to make a crust fill it with strawberries and let it bake while the rest of the dinner is being eaten.

Tomato Soup Crisp Crackers
Toasted Cheese with Bacon
Radishes Onions Rolls
Strawberry Tarts Coffee

Toasted Cheese and Bacon — Shred the cheese into a pie pan. On this break one egg, sprinkle with salt, mustard and paprika and cover with milk. With a fork stir egg, milk, seasoning into the cheese. Place strips of bacon across this. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) about twenty minutes until bacon is crisp and the custard is set.

SUGGESTIONS

Washing Dishes Clean

Are you sure you wash your dishes clean? Following is the approved method, as given by an expert: A preliminary cleansing should be given the dishes before they are put into the dishwasher. This may be done by scraping, wiping with paper toweling, or rinsing under the tap. Use a soapy washing water which is as hot as the hands can stand. Renew this frequently, without waiting for the dishwasher to appear actually dirty. Use a rinsing water of boiling temperature and in the case of silver and glassware, a soapy clean rinse if you want to give them an added shine.

full cubes of sugar? Then count it 100 calories. I would say the average size glassful of plain soda averages from 75 to 125 C. Ice cream sodas, depending upon the amount of ice cream and the richness of it, vary from 200 to 500 C., or even more.

Unseeded biscuit, 25 C. A dill pickle, one large, 7 inches long, about 50 C. (fresh cucumbers, 2 1-2, 7 1-2 inches long, 100 C.) A level teaspoonful of sweetened condensed milk would be about 25 C.

You should have a good book on dietetics, J., which will give you lists of food and their caloric values. Our article on Balanced Diet, and the pamphlet on reducing and gaining give such a list.

Miss E.—We have an article on tuberculosis which gives a list of books on the subject, written by authorities for the layman. Send this. See above for directions.

Tomorrow: Answers to Mothers.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and two cents in coin for each article to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, ten cents in coin with fully s. a. s. e. must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of this paper.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The north and south polar zones hold secrets of so many different sorts, each of especial interest to some particular group of scientists, that it's hard to tell just which group waits with the keenest curiosity for more details of Capt. George H. Wilkins' arctic visit.

Among others, the aviators are in a great state of excitement. Wilkins seems to be a marvel as a sub-zero flier.

Next after gravity, Jack Frost—in his various manifestations—is about the meanest influence the chap at the joy stick has to reckon with. If the captain has hit on an improved system of defying him, his brother aviators are mighty anxious to know it. It would mean a lot to northern aeronautics—not only right over the pole but away down to the 45th parallel.

The weather sharks are on tip-toe, too.

Most of them have always considered the Arctic the hemisphere's weather factory. They haven't heard half enough about it yet from earlier explorers. Today they're all ears for Wilkins' account of his observations.

Regular reports from the "big nail" might revolutionize forecasting, the experts say.

It would be idle to deny that there's a certain amount of disappointment in scientific circles at the absence of large land bodies in the north pole's vicinity. It takes at least a new island to stir a geographer's enthusiasm. Ice water hasn't much appeal to the naturalist, the botanist or the geologist. About all these folks can do is to hope for better things from the antarctic, where there's solid dirt to support a little animal and plant life, and to be dug in—for mineral and oil deposits, fossils and such stuff.

It's taken for granted that Wilkins had instruments with him, to show how the pole's neighborhood affects the compass.

Students of terrestrial magnetism have received useful hints on this subject from Peary, Byrd and Amundsen, but they can make use of plenty more—and still leave navigators and surveyors a good many problems to puzzle over.

Hydrographers think perhaps they'll be able to draw enlightening conclusions from what the captain noted concerning ice drift—implying currents.

Wilkins' story jolted the oceanographers. The latter had figured that there WAS considerable land in the far north. They judged so, from the way the tides act.

Now they must recast their calculations—unless, indeed, it was very shoal water the captain flew over. That might explain the tides' behavior. The oceanographers wish a few soundings could have been taken.

Pure science, it devotes add, is a grab bag, anyway.

The investigator reaches in and fishes out some package of information that even he can't recognize as having a market value. And the next thing he knows, it dawns on him that he's discovered some such thing as radio, the world's astonished overnight, and he's as much astonished as anybody.

Who knows if it won't be that way with Capt. Wilkins?

Living and Loving

Wants Girl to Propose

What is the matter with a chap who loves a girl, goes with her only, is practically engaged but will not "pop" the question? Wants her to do it. Is he afraid of the responsibility? Or does he want to boast all his married life that she did the proposing? Possibly he believes that Leap Year was made for the purpose of giving the girls a chance to propose, and that they should take advantage of their privilege. Whatever the cause, here is this girl's letter:

"Dear Mrs. V. Lee: My fellow is one of the finest boys in this city, but he has his peculiarities. He has been coming to see me for two years and is perfectly devoted to me and never goes with any other girl. We both have given up everything for each other, but are not engaged in the true sense, and here is the only stumbling block. He wants me to propose and is perfectly foolish on the subject. It is a hobby with him, and he freely admits it. I have fully realized the improbability, all along, of complying with his request, but knowing that he is only seeking to gratify a little whim I have tried to work myself up to the point, but did not quite make it.

"Now Mrs. Lee, since we are partially engaged, please tell me if I can brush aside conventionalities and gratify his only hobby and be married.

LULIE."

I think, Lulie, that I would be inclined to tell him that if he did not want me well enough to do the proposing, he had better give me up. However, knowing that he cares and that asking the actual question is really just a formality, it ought not to be so hard to do it if you really feel you should. Why not compromise. Tell him that you have been going together long enough and had either better be married or break up. That might bring things to a climax.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am in my last semester of high school and am coming to you for advice. I care very much for a certain boy in my class. He knows I like him, but he thinks of it as mere friendship, as he likes one of my very best friends. I could take another boy who cares for me, but I don't love him. I don't want to do."

"EMILY."

Whether you take the second boy or not, do not try to break up the friendship of your girl friend and this first boy. Be a good sport, even if it hurts.

"Miss Old Fashion" also has decided views on the petting question, and, of course, she is right.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

Aunt Busy Body!

With Peter to know a thing was to tell it!

"Hello, Oriole," he called out to the bird on the branch so near him. "I mistook your voice for a stranger's, but I recognize your face as a friend's. I didn't know you had come back from your winter vacation—you always take such a long one. You'll have to change your coat if you ever fool me. The moment I saw that bit of 'flying gold,' unexpected as you were, I knew it was you!"

Orlone, jolly bird that he was, winked a shiny eye.

Flying Gold! That's a pretty name for me. I like it. Odd you didn't recognize ours as Oriole voices. Thought everybody could tell our twitting the instant we heard it. Yes, here we are, ready to begin another season. Come back four days ago and we've just finished the nest. It took us three days to make it. Poor little wife—she is all tuckered out.

"But it does seem good to be back at the old homestead again. We love it here in the orchard. Hope this season is a long one; we certainly shall not leave before the first leaf falls. Hello, I wonder what is up now! I hear wife talking to some one, and she seems quite excited. Excuse me for a moment. I must see what the matter is!"

Peter was every bit as anxious as Oriole himself to discover what all the fuss was about, for by now a big twittering was going on in the apple tree. A shrill voice Peter had not heard before piped out:

"It is very well to believe in lady birds' rights, of course—I do myself—but it is carrying things altogether too far to expect to do your duty in the home and take an interest in the outside world at the same time."

"Only one other Oriole I ever heard of built a house with a window in it, and she placed it too high to do her any good. She couldn't look out while she was sitting on the eggs for the silly bird had built it too far above her head.

"But, like the good mother she was, she can forget about her high faluting notions to do two things at the same time in taking care of the children. How do you expect to do your duty by your babies if you have an eye on the orchard all day long. Your business is in the home, I say. Leave the other things to your husband, niece!"

A second voice that the boy recognized at once as belonging to Mrs. Oriole, had been trying to get a word in edgewise for some time, and now at last succeeded.

"Now Aunt Busy-body, you are not a bit fair. Didn't I

"HELLO ORIOLE," HE HAILED THE BIRD ON THE BRANCH SO NEAR HIM.

raise a brood last spring that was as healthy and as well behaved as any in Birdland? You shall see that I shall not neglect the children just because I am not cooped up in the dark with them all the day.

"Thank goodness I am up to date and can manage to do two things at once. You are behind the times, Auntie, that is what is the trouble with you."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE BLESSED—Now therefore hearken unto me, O ye children: for blessed are they that keep my ways.—Prov. 8:32.

BALL ROOM AND STREET TRAFFIC

The witticism, "Every year is leap year for the pedestrian," may soon be retired with other outlived jokes. Pictures of elderly gentlemen leaping frantically to safety at the blast of automobile horns; of younger folk scurrying to the sidewalks as cars dash across intersections; of timid folk waiting vainly for a break in the traffic stream, may all become things of the past. Traffic engineers and city planners are finally joining with the safety workers in efforts to assure personal security to the man or the woman who walks.

Municipal authorities throughout Ohio are working for the elimination of the two most troublesome traffic minorities—jaywalkers and reckless drivers. One they have accomplished this streets will be safe for both pedestrians and motorists are included in this last statement for the reason that the jay-walker endangers the heart and nerves of the careful driver as much as the reckless driver endangers the life of the careful pedestrian.

When will pedestrians and motorists learn that traffic policemen and signals are for their protection and convenience? And when will all traffic policemen learn to make pedestrians and drivers feel that the police are trying to help, not hinder, them?

Many lives will be saved in Ohio between now and the end of the summer motoring season if every pedestrian goes half way and every motorist comes half way to meet him. A congested thoroughfare is a poor place to stand by one's rights. There is too little of the "My Dear Gaston" and "after you, Mr. Hoolligan" attitude among walkers and riders.

Eve Fatigue as a Poe to Beauty
Tired Eyes! Have you never seen yourself in a mirror? Have you never been startled into trying to correct the outer condition, even if you can't get more sleep. You are not beautiful, Tired Eyes. You will not be young and lovely until you have learned to correct the condition if it is humanly possible. For it is, most decidedly, possible. It requires only a little thought and care and time.

There are many simple uses of water which I recommend first. When your eyes are strained and feverish, try washing with cool, and then cold, water, not only the eyes, but the back of the neck as well. There is an interrelationship of nerves there which are most responsive to treatment. An excellent way, not only to soothe the eyes, but to improve the sight, is by learning to open your eyes under water. An eye cup will give you simple practice in the effort.

Another fine thing for you to do is to drop a single drop of water into the corner of each eye the first thing in the morning and again at night. This is another wonderful refreshing practice.

Eyebaths may be manifold. Usually certain kinds are best adapted to certain specific needs. For general use in correcting outstanding cases of fatigue, warm water with a pinch of salt dissolved in it, used in an eye cup, will be very helpful, and so will compresses of cotton, wrung out of hot salt water, just as warm as you can bear it.

After that I know of nothing so soothing as a second application of two very thin cotton pads dipped

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Count 'Em.

Mrs. L.—There is only one way to know how much food you are consuming, and that is to count your calories. The fact that you abstained from everything "fattening" and did not lose a pound for months at a time, shows that you were consuming enough of the "non-fattening" foods to gain on, or at least to keep your weight the same.

You could live on one meal a day and omit sweets and other gain weight, if in that one meal you consumed more calories than you needed for the day's activities.

Yes, the milk diet is a splendid reducing diet. But even though you take skin milk, you have to limit the number of calories or fat. Otherwise you will gain, for milk diet is one of the best of the gaining methods.

I think you had better send for our pamphlet on reducing and gaining. These charges are required for obtaining it are to enclose (1) a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, and (2) 10 cents in coin. For all other articles, only 2 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. These charges are to cover cost of printing and handling.

Hair Tonic

Mrs. P. sends me an advertisement of a hair tonic, and wants to know what I think of it. The advertisement reads very convincingly, with an alluring bait in it. "Right away the scalp takes on a healthier tone," it says. Dandruff, if any, vanishes, and between the massaging and the tonic, the hair grows out new and thicker, and strange as it may appear, just by rubbing the tonic into the scalp, one begins noticing the gray hair resuming its natural shade. "Nature seems to get back on the job of putting pigment of color into off-colored locks, dull faded patches, even locks that have been gray for years."

Of course, patience and it's nightly use for a couple of weeks is required, after which an application and thorough massaging twice a month, more or less, seems to keep Nature up on her toes."

While the advertisement doesn't indicate it, this "tonic" is really a slow-acting dye, and undoubtedly contains harmful chemicals. It isn't that Nature is up on her toes. The advertiser is, though.

We have an article on the subject of the care of the hair, which you may have by observing the rules of the column.

Some Caloric Values

J.—The calories register only the amount of syrup that is used. You can judge the approximate caloric value of these plain sodas by their sweetness. It is as sweet as six level teaspoonfuls or three

Household Hints

MENU HINT

The speedy meal for the business woman who is also the housekeeper, or for the woman who is doing her cleaning or sewing and plans an easily prepared meal is suggested in today's menu. The canned soup is used here, but you may prefer to substitute some of your own home canned instead of the commercial product. You may buy the tarts, too. If not, it is the work of a moment to make a crust fill it with strawberries and let it bake while the rest of the dinner is being eaten.

Tomato Soup Crisp Crackers
Toasted Cheese with Bacon
Radishes Onions Rolls
Strawberry Tarts Coffee

Toasted Cheese and Bacon—Shred the cheese into a pie pan. On this break one egg, sprinkle with salt, mustard and paprika and cover with milk. With a fork stir egg, milk, seasoning into the cheese. Place strips of bacon across this. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) about twenty minutes until bacon is crisp and the custard is set.

SUGGESTIONS

Washing Dishes Clean

Are you sure you wash your dishes clean? Following is the approved method, as given by an expert: A preliminary cleansing should be given the dishes before they are put into the dishwasher. This may be done by scraping, wiping with paper toweling, or rinsing under the tap. Use a soapy washing water which is as hot as the hands can stand. Renew this frequently, without waiting for the dishwasher to appear actually dirty. Use a rinsing water of boiling temperature and in the case of silver and glassware, a soapy clean rinse if you want to give them an added shine.

full cubes of sugar? Then count it 100 calories. I would say the average size glassful of plain soda averages from 775 to 125 C. Ice cream sodas, depending upon the amount of ice cream and the richness of it, vary from 300 to 500 C. or even more.

Uneceda biscuit, 25 C. A dill pickle, one large, 7 inches long, about 50 C. (fresh cucumbers, 2 1-2, 7 1-2 inches long, 100 C.) A level teaspoonful of sweetened condensed milk would be about 25 C.

Yet should have a good book on dietetics, J., which will give you lists of food and their caloric values. Our article on Balanced Diet, and the pamphlet on reducing and gaining give such a list.

Miss E.—We have an article on Tuberculosis which gives a list of books on the subject, written by authorities for the layman. Send this. See above for directions.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The north and south polar zones hold secrets of so many different sorts, each of especial interest to some particular group of scientists, that it's hard to tell just which group waits with the keenest curiosity for more details of Capt. George H. Wilkins' arctic visit.

Among others, the aviators are in a great state of excitement. Wilkins seems to be a marvel as a sub-zero flier.

Next after aviation, Jack Frost—in his various manifestations—is about the meanest influence the chap at the joy stick has to reckon with. If the captain has hit on an improved system of defying him, his brother airmen are mighty anxious to know it. It would mean a lot to northern aeronautics—not only right over the pole but away down to the 45th parallel.

The weather sharks are on tip-toe, too.

Most of them have always considered the Arctic hemisphere's weather factory. They haven't heard half enough about it yet from earlier explorers. Today they're all ears for Wilkins' account of his observations.

Regular reports from the "big nail" might revolutionize forecasting, the experts say.

It would be idle to deny that there's a certain amount of disappointment in scientific circles at the absence of large land bodies in the north pole's vicinity.

It takes at least a new island to stir a geographer's enthusiasm. Ice water hasn't such appeal to the naturalist, the botanist or the geologist. About all these folks can do is to hope for better things from the antarctic, where there's solid dirt to support a little animal and plant life, and to be dug in—for mineral and oil deposits, fossils and such stuff.

It's taken for granted that Wilkins had instruments with him, to show how the pole's neighborhood affects the compass.

Students of terrestrial magnetism have received useful hints on this subject from Peary, Byrd and Amundsen, but they can make use of plenty more—and still leave navigators and surveyors a good many problems to puzzle over.

Hydrographers think perhaps they'll be able to draw enlightening conclusions from what the captain noted concerning ice drift—implying currents.

Wilkins' story jolted the oceanographers.

The latter had figured that there was considerable land in the far north. They judged so, from the way the tides act.

Now they must recast their calculations—unless, indeed, it was very shallow water the captain flew over. That might explain the tides' behavior. The oceanographers wish a few soundings could have been taken.

Pure science, its devotees add, is a grab bag, anyway.

The investigator reaches in and fishes out some package of information that even he can't recognize as having a market value.

And the next thing he knows, it dawns on him that he's discovered some such thing as radio, the world's astonished overnight, and he's as much astonished as anybody.

Who knows if it won't be that way with Capt. Wilkins?

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Wants Girl to Propose

What is the matter with a chap who loves a girl, goes with her only, is practically engaged, but will not "pop" the question? Wants her to do it. Is he afraid of the responsibility? Or does he want to boast all his married life that she did the proposing? Possibly he believes that Leap Year was made for the purpose of giving the girls a chance to propose, and that they should take advantage of their privilege. Whatever the cause, here is this girl's letter:

"Dear Mrs. V. Lee: My fellow is one of the finest boys in this city, but he has his peculiarities. He has been coming to see me for two years and is perfectly devoted to me and never goes with any other girl. We both have given up everything for each other, but he is not engaged in the true sense, and here is the only stumbling block. He wants me to propose and is perfectly foolish on the subject. It is a hobby with him, and he freely admits it. I have fully realized the impropriety, all along, of complying with his request, but knowing that he is only seeking to gratify a little whim I have tried to work myself up to the point, but did not quite make it.

"Now Mrs. Lee, since we are partially engaged, please tell me if I can brush aside conventionalities and gratify his only hobby and be married."

LULIE.

I think, Lulie, that I would be inclined to tell him that if he did not want me well enough to do the proposing, he had better give me up. However, knowing that he cares and that asking the actual question is really just a formality, it ought not to be so hard to do if you really feel you should. Why not compromise. Tell him that you have been going together long enough and had either better be married or break up. That might bring things to a climax.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am in my last semester of high school and am coming to you for advice. I care very much for a certain boy in my class. He knows I like him, but he thinks of it as mere friendship, as he likes one of my very best friends. I could take another boy who cares for me, but as I don't love him I don't know what to do."

"EMILY."

Whether you take the second boy or not, do not try to break up the friendship of your girl friend and this first boy. Be a good sport, even if it hurts.

"Miss Old Fashion" also has decided views on the petting question, and, of course, she is right.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

Aunt Busy Body!

With Peter to know a thing was to tell it.

"Hello, Oriole!" he called out bird on the branch so near him. "I mistook your voice for a stranger's, but I recognize your face as a friend's. I didn't know you had come back from your winter vacation—you always take such a long one. You'll have to change your name if you ever fool me. The moment I saw that bit of 'flying gold,' unexpected as you were, I knew it was you!"

Oricle, jolly bird that he was, winked a shiny eye.

Flying Gold! That's a pretty name for me. I like it. Odd you didn't recognize ours as Oriole voices. Thought everybody could tell our twittering the instant one heard it. Yes, here we are, ready to begin another season. Come back four days ago and we've just finished the nest. It took us three days to make it. Poor little wife—she is all tucked out.

"But it does seem good to be back at the old homestead again. We love it here in the orchard. Hope the season is a long one; we certainly shall not leave before the first leaf falls. Hello, I wonder what is up now! I hear wife talking to some one, and she seems quite excited. Excuse me for a moment, I must see what the matter is!"

Peter was every bit as anxious as Oriole himself. He was about to go on a great twittering was going on in the apple tree. A shrill voice Peter had not heard before piped out:

"It is very well to believe in lady birds' rights, of course. I do myself—but it is carrying things altogether too far to expect to do your duty in the home and take an interest in the outside world at the same time."

"Only one other Oriole I ever heard of built a house with a window in it, and she placed it too high to do her own good. She couldn't look out while she was sitting on the eggs for the silly bird had built it too far above her head.

"But, like the good mother she was, she soon forgot about her high faluting notions to do two things at the same time in taking care of the children. How do you expect to do your duty by your babies if you have an eye on the orchard all day long. Your business is in the home, I say. Leave the other things to your husband, niece!"

A second voice that the boy recognized at once as belonging to Mrs. Oriole had been trying to get away as edgewise for some time, and now at last succeeded.

"Now Aunt Busy-body, you are not a bit fair. Didn't I

"HELLO, ORIOLE!" HE HAILED THE BIRD ON THE BRANCH NEAR HIM.

raise a brood last spring that was as healthy and as well behaved as any in Birdland? You shall see that I shall not neglect the children just because I am not cooped up in the dark with them all the day.

"Thank goodness I am up to date and can manage to do two things at once. You are behind the times, Auntie. That is what is the trouble with you."

Schliff Hurls Airtight Ball And Reserves Win

LET'S TROY-PIRATES HAVE ONLY TWO HITS IN SUNDAY VICTORY

Allen Also Pitches Well But Support Falters.

Washing Park. Schliff pitched in rare form, the Reserves won their second straight game by defeating the Troy Pirates 5 to 2 in a game featured by a death of hitting Sunday afternoon at Schliff held the Pirates to two hits, both of which came in the sixth inning when Troy scored two runs, only one of which was earned, however.

Up until the sixth stanza, the Reserve hurler pitched hitless ball and only seventeen batters faced him.

In the sixth, Allen, Troy pitcher, led off with a single and scored on a triple by V. Hales. J. Hales fanned, but his brother scored when F. Hales was safe on an error by Randall. Wesco walked but the next two batters were easy.

Schliff struck out six batters but had a tendency toward wildness, walking four players and hitting another.

Allen, Troy moundman, was almost as good, but suffered from indifferent support. He yielded five hits, struck out seven men, walked one and hit one.

The Reserves got away to a two-run lead in the first inning when Johnson, first batter, walked, Barlow sacrificed and both runners were safe when LeBlanc fumbled the ball. Conley was safe on an error by Wesco, filling the bases.

Durnbaugh hit a long sacrifice fly to center, Johnson scoring after the catch. Randall fouled out but Cyphers inserted a single that enabled Barlow to score. Coy fanned for the final out.

Johnson hit a double with two out in the second but his mates could not score him.

Reserves added another counter in the third on a home run by Durnbaugh with the bases empty. It was a tremendous wallop, the ball rolling in the creek in deep right field.

Reserves scored two final runs after two were out in the fifth. Conley was hit by a pitched ball. He scored while Durnbaugh was going to second and then to third on a brace of errors. Randall's single scored Durnbaugh.

Durnbaugh was the only player on either team to make more than one hit. He made two, a homer and single. He also drove in two runs, hit a sacrifice fly and scored two runs personally.

Reserves presented a revised lineup for the game.

TAKE LEAGUE BOWLING TITLE SECOND YEAR

Introducing members of the Greene County Lumber Co. bowling team, which recently won the championship of the Xenia Recreation League for the second straight season.

Blackburn, who participated in fifty-seven games with the champions before leaving for Tulsa, Okla., to join the Tulsa baseball team for the season, was high average man of the league with a mark of 192.36. He is missing from the above picture.

The lumber company quintet, which clinched the championship in the final week of play, possessed the highest team average of the league.

The team wound up its season with a record of sixty-one games won and twenty-nine lost for a mark of 577.

Brickel was the only member of the team to play in all of the ninety games. He amassed 16,468 pins during the season for an average of 182.88.

Individual averages of members of the team follow:

Players	Games	T.P.	Ave.
Blackburn	57	10,950	192.36
Peterson	83	15,198	183.9
Brickel	90	16,468	182.88
Swindler	83	14,934	179.77
Dice	68	11,744	172.43
Moorehead	45	7,754	172.16
Murphy	15	2,058	171.6

place at a sickening rate of speed. Just such another club is the Dodgers, who dropped from first to third in the league column, it is noted today that outfits like the Pirates, the Giants and the Reds in the National League and the New York Yankees and the Athletics in the American League are beginning to show just where the "author-lety" is vested. They were the heavy winners of the week just concluded, a week during which frostbite was at a minimum for the first time this season. In brief, class is beginning to register.

The Cardinals, as a matter of fact, were the only admitted contender that didn't do itself some good during the seven days in question. The Cards, split up the back like a dowager's gown by a series of illnesses and injuries, averaged only four runs a game in the last eight played and that kind of focus is out like an eye in this modern day. The club won only two out of eight and now is doddering around in sixth place.

The Pirates, Reds, Yankees and Athletics staked themselves to the greatest weekly gains, the Pirates' record being five out of seven, the Reds' six out of eight, the Yankees' six out of seven and the Athletics' four out of five. In consequence, the Pirates slid into fourth place, within 1 1/2 games of the lead. The Reds displaced the Dodgers in the runner-up position and the Yankees gave evidence of making a one-club race again of the American League affair.

Only the Athletics, the Tigers and the Browns, of the other contenders, were able to win more games than they lost. However, these outfits barely more than broke even against a Yankee percentage of .857 and you don't need a monocle to see what is going to happen if that kind of business goes much longer. Perhaps Yankee pitching isn't what it was but any club that scores seven runs a game isn't due to lose too many of them.

At that, the Pirates did the real hitting for the week, getting no less than ninety-nine hits in seven games for a remarkable average of fourteen to the game. Those who thought Pittsburgh was all washed up like a starched collar after the last world series are beginning to think up another good one.

The Giants also had a big week on the attack and they needed it, judging by the kind of pitching they got in the first three games at Cincinnati, the last two of which were lost. Our Mr. McGraw's boys still are running first today but they are almost as badly shot as the Cardinals. They won five out of eight, thanks to the weather-strip game they gave the Dodgers and, even including the Cincinnati series, they took a terrible thump out of enemy pitching. They averaged nearly eleven hits a game for the week, their output including eight home runs, high water mark for the seven days.

Meantime, the Reds, not supposed to be a hitting club, virtually kept pace with the Giants in this department and today are running a rousing second, less than a game out of the lead. The Reds top the league in games won with thirteen and, from an intra-league standing, are exceeded only by the Yankees and Cleveland Indians, each of which has won fourteen. The Indians, however, began to slip back toward normalcy by winning only two out of six for the week. Pitching of no pitch, a club that scores only twenty runs in six games is headed no place at a sickening rate of speed. Just such another club is the Dodgers, who dropped from first to third in the league column, it is noted today that outfits like the Pirates, the Giants and the Reds in the National League and the New York Yankees and the Athletics in the American League are beginning to show just where the "author-lety" is vested. They were the heavy winners of the week just concluded, a week during which frostbite was at a minimum for the first time this season. In brief, class is beginning to register.

The Cardinals, as a matter of fact, were the only admitted contender that didn't do itself some good during the seven days in question. The Cards, split up the back like a dowager's gown by a series of illnesses and injuries, averaged only four runs a game in the last eight played and that kind of focus is out like an eye in this modern day. The club won only two out of eight and now is doddering around in sixth place.

The Pirates, Reds, Yankees and Athletics staked themselves to the greatest weekly gains, the Pirates' record being five out of seven, the Reds' six out of eight, the Yankees' six out of seven and the Athletics' four out of five. In consequence, the Pirates slid into fourth place, within 1 1/2 games of the lead. The Reds displaced the Dodgers in the runner-up position and the Yankees gave evidence of making a one-club race again of the American League affair.

Only the Athletics, the Tigers and the Browns, of the other contenders, were able to win more games than they lost. However, these outfits barely more than broke even against a Yankee percentage of .857 and you don't need a monocle to see what is going to happen if that kind of business goes much longer. Perhaps Yankee pitching isn't what it was but any club that scores seven runs a game isn't due to lose too many of them.

At that, the Pirates did the real hitting for the week, getting no less than ninety-nine hits in seven games for a remarkable average of fourteen to the game. Those who thought Pittsburgh was all washed up like a starched collar after the last world series are beginning to think up another good one.

The Giants also had a big week on the attack and they needed it, judging by the kind of pitching they got in the first three games at Cincinnati, the last two of which were lost. Our Mr. McGraw's boys still are running first today but they are almost as badly shot as the Cardinals. They won five out of eight, thanks to the weather-strip game they gave the Dodgers and, even including the Cincinnati series, they took a terrible thump out of enemy pitching. They averaged nearly eleven hits a game for the week, their output including eight home runs, high water mark for the seven days.

Meantime, the Reds, not supposed to be a hitting club, virtually kept pace with the Giants in this department and today are running a rousing second, less than a game out of the lead. The Reds top the league in games won with thirteen and, from an intra-league standing, are exceeded only by the Yankees and Cleveland Indians, each of which has won fourteen. Schlipf Hurls Airtight Ball And Reserves Win

LET'S TROY-PIRATES HAVE ONLY TWO HITS IN SUNDAY VICTORY

Allen Also Pitches Well But Support Falters.

WITTH Schlipf pitching in rare form, the Reserves won their second straight game by defeating the Troy Pirates 5 to 2 in a game featured by a dearth of hitting Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

Schlipf held the Pirates to two hits, both of which came in the sixth inning when Troy scored two runs, only one of which was earned, however.

Up until the sixth stanza, the Reserve hurler pitched hitless ball and only seventeen batters faced him.

In the sixth, Allen, Troy pitcher, led off with a single and scored on a triple by V. Hales. J. Hales fanned but his brother scored when he was safe on an error by Randall. Wesco walked but the next two batters were easy.

Schlipf struck out six batters but had a tendency toward wildness, walking four players and hitting another.

Allen, Troy moundman, was almost as good, but suffered from ineffectual support. He yielded five hits, struck out seven men, walked one and hit one.

The Reserves got away to a two-run lead in the first inning when Johnson, first batter, walked, Barlow sacrificed and both runners were safe when LeBlanc fumbled the bunt. Conley was safe on an error by Wesco, filling the bases.

Durnbaugh hit a long sacrifice fly to center, Johnson scoring after the catch. Randall fouled out but Cyphers inserted a single that enabled Barlow to score. Coy fanned for the final out.

Johnson hit double with two out in the second but his mates could not score him.

Reserves added another counter in the third on a home run by Durnbaugh with the bases empty. It was a tremendous wallop, the ball rolling in the creek in deep right field.

Reserves scored two final runs after two were out in the fifth. Conley was hit by a pitched ball. He scored while Durnbaugh was going to second and then to third on a brace of errors, Randall's single scored Durnbaugh.

Durnbaugh was the only player on either team to make more than one hit. He made two, a homer and single. He also drove in two runs, hit a sacrifice fly and scored two runs personally.

Reserves presented a revised lineup for the game.

LOU GETS THIRD

NEW YORK, May 7.—The presence of Captain Herman Kosh, Baron Von Huenefeld and Major James Fitzmaurice at the Yankee Stadium yesterday inspired Lou Gehrig, the crown prince of swat, to hit his third home run of the season. The standing of the leaders in the home run race today is: Babe Ruth, 6; Joe Mauer, 5; Del Bissonette, 3; Gehrig, 3.

TAKE LEAGUE BOWLING TITLE SECOND YEAR

Introducing members of the Greene County Lumber Co., bowling team, which recently won the championship of the Xenia Recreation League for the second straight season.

Blackburn, who participated in fifty-seven games with the champions before leaving for Tulsa, Okla., to join the Tulsa baseball team for the season, was high average man of the league with a mark of 192.36. He is missing from the above picture.

The lumber company quintet, which clinched the championship in the final week of play, possessed the highest team average of the league.

The team wound up its season with a record of six-one games won and twenty-nine lost for a mark of 67.7.

Brickel was the only member of the team to play in all of the nine games. He amassed 16,468 pins during the season for an average of 182.88.

Individual averages of members of the team follow:

Players	Games	T.P.	Ave.
Blackburn	57	10,950	192.36

READ THIS FIRST:

Lynda Fenton, a singularly innocent girl, is private secretary to Ralph Armitage. Her father, a drunkard, tells her that her mother deserted them, and that all women have their price.

Lynda meets Emily Andrews, who cherishes a secret fondness for David Kenmore, Lynda's companion from childhood. Emily plots against Lynda from the very beginning. David tells Lynda he loves her, but she decides she doesn't want to be in love with any man. David is away on a trip.

Lynda's father, too, deserts her, and Claire Stanhope comes to live with her. Claire tells of innocent love for Fred Blake, a married man. Lynda comes home one day to find Fred in the house, and hears Claire entreating him to stay away.

June Challer, who has annexed money, invites Lynda and Claire and Emily Andrews to a big party. It's Lynda's first real affair, and she is enraptured. Emily secretly sends David a letter, suggesting that he come home for the party, so that Lynda may be made to feel at ease. Then she sends him an anonymous note, saying "Ralph Armitage is rushing your girl."

Ralph meets with an accident. Lynda goes to his home, where he is entranced by her kindly sympathy, and next day he tells her he loves her, and that he'll be at the party if he must go in an ambulance. Emily invites herself to dinner with Lynda.

Claire Stanhope announces she's to marry Fred Blake when a divorce has been secured. Lynda gets a new view of life. (Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XI

A MAN WITH A MASK
Today Lynda Fenton had about her that inevitable chic which is the heritage of all American girls, rich or poor. To some it comes when they are born, others attain it in longer or shorter periods.

Sometimes, however, one is utterly surprised to find how quickly it picks up the universal sophistication that one sees on the American streets.

David would be surprised when he saw Lynda, for no man can understand the quick change from naivete to butterfly in the girl he has known from childhood.

Snatching her red felt hat from the chair where she had dropped it the night before, Lynda did not wait for her coffee, but ran for the bus.

When she reached the office she dropped under Miss Groody's eye, as she pushed the time clock five minutes late.

She knew that "upright lady" was saying to herself that she was presuming upon her "young boss" being away.

"Mr. Armitage, senior, wants to see you," she said.

Lynda hurriedly tapped on the door that was marked with his name, and entered.

For a moment she stood still, so bent and slumped was the man who was standing by the window with his back toward the door.

Evidently he was so engrossed in his painful thoughts, he did not hear, even when she came into the room far enough to catch a glimpse of his face, and realized that she had caught him with his mask of arrogant dignity off. She tried to turn her back, then, for she was almost ashamed, as well as pained, at what she saw behind that mask. A forgotten phrase from her Sunday school days came back to her. "A fainting fit," she thought it described herself.

At the slight noise of her careful step, Mr. Armitage turned quickly. In that moment he found time to resume his usual expression.

"I did not hear you come in, Miss Fenton. My son is not so well this morning, and the doctor has forbidden him to exert himself in any manner. He privately told me not to tell you."

How Much Water Should Baby Get?

A Famous Authority's Rule
By Ruth Brittain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight-pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty-cent bottles contain thirty-five doses.

For a moment she stood still, so bent and slumped was the man.

to allow him to bother about any business for a few days, so I am afraid you will have to get along the best you can. If you find anything you are in doubt about, you will come to me. You may put his private mail in some safe place until he returns. I do not imagine any of it will be so very important that it cannot wait thirty-six hours or so."

"I trust Mr. Armitage only needs a little quiet and rest to fully recover," said Lynda.

"I am sure that is all," his father answered, in his habitually dignified tones, as he turned to his desk. Lynda took this as her dismissal.

As she left she wondered if she had not caught that look of agony upon his face, when he thought it was not observed, she would not have said that Mr. Armitage, senior, was not especially moved by his son's illness.

The telephone was ringing as she entered the "young boss' office, and the disconcerted woman's voice, which she knew belonged to Pamela Sheston, demanded: "Call Mr. Armitage to the phone."

"Mr. Armitage is not down, and will not be down today, madam," Lynda answered.

"Will you give me the number of his home? I do not find it in the book."

"I cannot do that, madam, as Mr. Armitage, senior, has just given orders that his son must not be disturbed under any circumstances."

Again the receiver was hung up with a bang.

All day long, in spite of all that Mr. Armitage had told her, Lynda found that she was waiting to hear from Ralph. She felt sure that he would find some way to elude his servants and telephone her.

She grew quite nervous over it, toward closing time. No one came near her all day, and even at lunch time she could not find Claire, who, Emily told her, had gone on some

Radio Revue

BY C. KAY

NEW YORK, May 7.—Although the term is frequently heard, there is no such thing as a genuine "static eliminator." Devices that have attempted to remove atmospheric disturbances from signals have either failed to effect a separation, or if successful, have materially reduced the strength of the signals.

But there is, it seems, such a thing as a static absorber—a radio shock absorber. It is an invention of a Pennsylvania experimenter. A resistance unit is interposed between the aerial post and aerial to render the antenna circuit aperiodic and thereby prevent violent oscillation, such as those produced by atmospheric disturbances, from entering the radio receivers.

A liquid compounded of blue clay, sulphuric acid and water supposedly acts as the shock absorber. The resistance device proper consists of a pair of spaced parallel tubes with a plug at each end, a yoke-shaped conductor to be connected to the antenna circuit, opposing one end of the tubes and extending centrally through the plug at each end of a tube and into the absorbing element within the tube; and a yoke-shaped carrier to be connected to the antenna post, opposing the other end of the tubes and including a pair of arms, each extending centrally through a plug at the other end of the tube and into the absorbing element within the tube and spaced from the conductor arm within the latter.

Read it over again, and the explanation will be clearer.

Another device aimed at the taming of static is the idea of William T. Scott, of Washington, D. C. A band instrument expert, his scheme to prevent ear-busting is a sound filtering machine with the quality of smothering those air waves that are not of regular frequency and admitting the unadulterated signals.

Other experimenters are of the opinion that the way to get rid of the nuisance called static is not to try to eliminate it, but to harness it and make it of some use. They incline to the idea that electrical filters ought to be possible that would take into account a sharp wave as well as the frequency. They would catch it along with the electrical energy that represents radio waves, but avoid changing it into sound, separating the wheat from the chaff.

Static originates in electrical discharges between cloud parts, between cloud and cloud, between earth and clouds, between objects on the earth. These discharges set up electric waves that radio receivers pick up along with the electric waves that are radio signals. Since the whole surface of the earth is

REV. JESSE HAWKINS DIES; WAS RETIRED FRIENDS MINISTER

The Rev. Jesse Hawkins, 82, pastor of the Friends Church at New Burlington for fifty-four years until his retirement last January, died at his home at 8 o'clock Sunday night.

Death was due to pneumonia, which developed after he had contracted a severe cold while conducting a funeral service at Caesar Creek a week ago.

The Rev. Mr. Hawkins became 82 last March 21, and was born on a farm, one mile south of New Burlington, the son of Amos and Massie Spry Hawkins.

Although recorded a minister of the Friends denomination May 8, 1874, he was not made pastor of the New Burlington church until 1902 since before that time the Friends did not have regular pastors.

He began his preaching career in Mercer County before that county was well settled, but came to New Burlington shortly afterward. He did considerable evangelistic work for his denomination, conducting revivals at the Wilmington Yearly Meeting, annually, where Mrs. Hawkins was for years a singer. He also started the Xenia meeting.

The Rev. and Mrs. Hawkins celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary last January 30 with an "open house" at their home.

He is survived by his widow, Nannie; two daughters, Mrs. Isabella Haydock, postmistress of New Burlington, and Mrs. Arthur Hartman, Waynesville; ten grandchildren, and one great grand child, Joseph W. Larkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Larkin, of Harveysburg. Mr. Larkin, Sr., is superintendent of schools at Harveysburg, O.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the New Burlington Friends Church. Burial will be made in Coopers Creek Cemetery.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, much depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores
